Through age and time. Based on the longevity of the garments, referring to the durability both in material and appearance. Anchored in Egypt, with inspiration from various landscapes (ancient bedrocks and winding rivers), specific events or fictive tales.

The Prince of the Nile: Moses; the story of a boy found by Princess Hatshepsut, when he floated around in a basket among the reeds. Here, layers upon layers, drooping silhouettes, veils and the reflecting water were extracted.

Egypt, with its fascinating mummies and explorers, led to the iconic film from 1999: The Mummy. Where tropical hats, shirts in natural fibers and 1920' s silhouettes are prominent on the muse and lead actress Rachel Weisz.

All with a touch of Acne Studios slim 90' s style and, most times, odd combinations.

These areas of inspiration fuse together like sand grains in a sleek hourglass.
